Report

The tree plantation event at the campus successfully engaged students and faculty in enhancing the green landscape while promoting environmental awareness. Participants planted a variety of trees, contributing to biodiversity and improving air quality on campus. The initiative aimed to instill a sense of responsibility towards nature, encouraging sustainable practices within the community. In addition to beautifying the campus, the event emphasized the importance of trees in combating climate change and provided educational resources on proper planting and care techniques. Overall, the tree plantation was a vibrant demonstration of collective commitment to a healthier, greener future.
